LOCATION

Stirling is a city in central Scotland. Stirling is a centre for local government, higher education, tourism, retail, and industry. The 2011 census recorded the population of the city as 45,750; the wider Stirling council area has a population of about 91,000. The City is reputed to be the third fastest growing area of Scotland in terms of population.

A major new regeneration project on the site of the former port area and the former Ministry of Defence site, adjacent to Stirling Railway Station, is currently underway. Known as Forthside, it has the aim of developing a new waterfront district linked to the railway station via a new pedestrian bridge.

Stirling is well located in central Scotland being almost equidistant between Glasgow, Edinburgh and Perth. The city benefits from good transport links to include a mainline railway, bus depot and easy access onto the Motorway network.

The subjects are located on the eastern side of Barnton Street between its junctions with Princes Street and Maxwell Place.

DESCRIPTION

The subjects comprise a ground floor retail unit contained within a mid terraced four storey building of stone construction surmounted by a pitched and slated roof.
